The leading social event of yesterday was the marriage of Miss Ailsa Walker Grant, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Carrington, to Charles Gladcock Barksdale. The ceremony, which took place very quietly, on account of mourning in the family of the bride, was celebrated at St. Paul's Church at 1 o'clock in the presence of only the closest relatives and a few intimate friends. The Rev. W. Russell Bowie, rector of St. Paul's, officiated.

Following a wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Barksdale will make their home in Richmond. Mr. Barksdale is a son of Judge William R. Barksdale, of Halifax, and, as State bank examiner, has made his residence here for some time past.

Westmoreland Club Dance. The Westmoreland Club will give an informal dance to the members and their families this evening at the club from 8 to 12 o'clock. Glasgow—Williams. Thomas Evan Williams, of Arvonla, Buckingham County, has issued invitations for the marriage of his sister, Miss Thomasia Mildred Williams, to Arthur Lee Glasgow, of Littleton, N. C., the ceremony to be celebrated on the afternoon of Tuesday, May 12, at 2:30 o'clock in the home of the bride, "Windsor." The wedding is of the greatest interest to society here, where the bride has frequently visited as the guest of relatives and friends, and a number of Richmond people will attend the ceremony. Miss Williams is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Evan R. Williams, and is widely related throughout the State.

Celebrate Silver Wedding. Quantities of lovely flowers banked the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rothchild, at 1841 West Grace Street, last evening from 8:30 to 11 o'clock, when they were at home to their friends in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The parlors were thronged with handsomely gowned guests during receiving hours, and many friends expressed their good wishes and congratulations on this occasion. The halls and parlors were decorated everywhere in lavender and white wisteria, against a background of trailing vines, shaded lights and palms, and Misses Meyer, Zander and Cohen presided at the punch bowl, which was also decorated in flowers. The dining-room was arranged in pink blossoms, and the table was set with a centerpiece of pink sweet peas and roses. The candles were shaded in rose color, and pink flowers were used on the mantles.

Sylvan Rothchild, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who came to Richmond especially for the celebration of the silver wedding of his parents, received with the family.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock a beautiful wedding took place in Court Street Baptist Church, Portsmouth, when Miss Virginia Houghton Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jefferson Phillips, became the bride of John Dalrymple Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leola Richmond Powell. The church was decorated with palms and Southern smilax. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. B. Garrett, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. W. A. Brown, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church.

The bride entered with her father. Her gown was of duchess satin, exquisitely hand embroidered and beaded, and her only ornament a pearl necklace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was a shower of lilies of the valley and bride roses.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Weldon Ellis, as matron of honor, and Miss Caroline Boykin, of Suffolk, maid of honor, were gowned in soft white chignon tulle and carried pink Kilmory roses. Miss Elizabeth Ames, of Churchland; Miss Agnes Greene, of Moback, and Miss Jennie Sherwood, the bridesmaids, were gowned in white chignon tulle and carried clusters of pink sweet peas. The two little flower girls, Misses Caroline Powell and Ruth Avery Phillips, wore dainty lingerie and carried baskets of sweet peas.

The groom had as his best man his brother, Leola Richmond Powell, Jr., and the groomsmen were Robert Kent, Jr., Carroll Powell, brother of the groom; A. J. Phillips, Jr., brother of the bride; Edward Gordon, Jr., of Philadelphia; Alexander Barclay Guilgon, III, of Richmond; and George Parsons, of Richmond.

The ceremony was followed by a brilliant reception given at the bride's home. Among the out of town guests were Mrs. J. L. Page, of Augusta, Ga.; Jeff Phillips, Jr., a student at the A. and M. College, Raleigh; Miss Katharine Sinton, of Richmond; Mrs. Leon Williams and daughter, of Raleigh; Mr. Weldon Ellis, of Raleigh; Miss Caroline Boykin, of Suffolk; Miss Agnes Greene, of Moback; Miss Elizabeth Ames, of Churchland; A. Garland Tinsley, formerly of this city, but now of Baltimore, were here at dinner Wednesday evening at the Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore, the guests going with them later to attend the performance of the Vernon Casals at the Lyric, where they occupied the tea boxes. Covers were laid for twenty at the dinner, and the tables were arranged in tulips and French daisies.

In honor of Miss Daisy Morzan, of this city, who is the guest of relatives in Salem, Mrs. W. R. Cross and Mrs. W. F. Norris, of that place, entertained at a rook party on Tuesday afternoon.

Lillard—Perry. A pretty but quiet wedding celebrated Wednesday morning at 11:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. McClure in Highland Park, was that of the latter's sister, Miss Annie

Lillard Perry, daughter of Mrs. Julia A. Perry, of Orange, and William D. Lillard, of the same place. The parlors were arranged with palms, shaded lights and spring flowers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Robertson. The bride wore a smart going-away gown of green cloth with hat and gloves to match, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride roses. Her sister, Mrs. E. F. McIntosh, was matron of honor. E. M. McClure attended the groom as his best man. Little Miss Julia McClure scattered buttercups in the bride's path, and Mrs. W. E. HOPELAND HOUSE SCENE OF BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY

Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington Becomes Bride of Vincent Astor.

LESS THAN FIFTY AT WEDDING Recent Illness of Young Groom Necessitates Simple Arrangements—Will Spend Honeymoon at Country Place.

Staatsburg, N. Y., April 30.—William Vincent Astor, son of the late Colonel John Jacob Astor, and Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, whom a has known since childhood, were married here shortly after noon to-day in the big, oak-paneled library of Hopland House, home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington.

Less than fifty persons witnessed the ceremony, and of these three were the superintendents from the Astor, the Huntington and the Dinsmore estates, respectively. The other guests were relatives and close friends of the families.

Plans had been made for an elaborate church wedding, but Mr. Astor's recent illness, which threatened pneumonia, made necessary the abandonment of these plans. Eighteen hundred wedding announcements were sent out after to-day's ceremony, but the small company that witnessed it had been invited by informal notes.

A fine rain was falling when the few guests from New York City arrived at the 400-acre Huntington estate. Guards had been posted at the entrances and only those whose credentials were unquestioned were admitted.

Deputies as Sentinels. Mr. Astor himself is a deputy sheriff of Dutchess County, and some of his fellow deputies acted as sentinels at the gates.

Green foliage and spring flowers from the Huntington conservatories and from New York hung everywhere throughout the rooms of Hopland House. Buried in blossoms, with a touch of green, was the marble mantelpiece in the library before which the couple stood. Miss Huntington entered the room on the arm of her father.

At her throat gleamed a magnificent necklace of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Her bridal gown was of white tulle, with a trail of white satin. Her lace veil had been worn by her grandmother, Mrs. Dinsmore, and by her mother before her.

Herman Oelrich, of New York, an old friend of Vincent Astor, was best man. Miss Alice Huntington, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the little Misses Muriel Astor and Margaret Dows were flower girls. The two children were prettily garbed in corn-colored chifon and dotted net, with blue sash and ribbon.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom were seated at a long table, and each carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

Mrs. Robert Huntington, the bride's mother, wore blue tulle and chifon. A screened orchestra of twenty pieces played the Lohengrin wedding march, and the Rev. Charles H. Duncan, rector of St. Margaret's Church, Staatsburg, read the Episcopal marriage service.

Wedding Breakfast Served. When the pair had risen, man and wife, the wedding party assembled in the "long room" adjoining the library, where a wedding breakfast was served.

Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, mother of the bridegroom, was among the wedding guests. The young widow of Colonel Astor, although invited, was not present. She is in the South.

Among other guests were Robert Huntington, the bride's brother, who is home from St. Paul's School at Concord; Mrs. William B. Dinsmore, the bride's grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dinsmore, Jr., the bride's uncle and aunt, with their two children; Miss Madeline Dinsmore, another aunt; Nicholas Dinsmore, one of the executors of the Astor estate, and a few neighbors and old friends.

Vincent Astor is twenty-two years old. The bride is twenty.

Until a week ago, the young heir to the vast Astor estate—estimated at from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000—was ill in the Huntington residence. While visiting his fiancée a month ago he became seriously ill with an abscess on the lungs. Although his physicians permitted him outdoors for the first time only four days ago, young Astor insisted that there should be no delay in the wedding.

At Country Home. It is understood that Mrs. Astor will remain at their country home, not far from the Huntington place, for a month. They hope that Mr. Astor's month then will permit a yachting cruise and a visit in England at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ava Willing Astor.

The Huntington family declined to give out any list or description of the many and handsome presents received by the bride. Most of these were taken immediately to safe deposit vaults in a Poughkeepsie bank.

Following his wedding to Helen Dinsmore Huntington to-day, Vincent Astor was forced to retire to his room and remained there until shortly after 4 o'clock, when he and his bride left for Farncliffe, the Astor estate at Rhinebeck. At Farncliffe to-night he was under the care of Dr. Herrihan and two nurses. A member of the family said that Mr. Astor must be "mightily careful" of himself for several weeks. At the end of a month it is hoped that he will be sufficiently recovered to go abroad with Mrs. Astor for the extensive honeymoon.

After the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Griggs went to their new home near Big Island.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom left on the northbound train, and will visit various cities in North before returning to Lynchburg.
